

European Solidarity Corps 2026

New voluntary position covering accommodation, expenses and allowance

Position: Rehabilitation Assistant

Dates: August 2026 (fixed term of 12 months)

BirdLife Malta is looking for a candidate to assist the conservation department in fulfilling a number of duties related to our core work with the rescue, care and rehabilitation of wild birds.

Are you:

- Aged 18-30
- A citizen of one of the partner or programme countries
- Keen to progress a career in frontline conservation issues
- Ready to assist us in rescuing wild birds and reacting to illegal hunting and trapping reports.
- Have a hands-on approach to current conservation challenges in Malta, and are willing to work flexible hours, including occasionally during weekends, in the office or field.

Those who have previously participated in a long-term Erasmus+ European Solidarity Corps (ESC) scheme or long-term Erasmus+ Volunteering scheme are not eligible to apply for this position.

The European Solidarity Corps programme will provide you with:

- Accommodation in a shared apartment close to our offices in Ta' Xbiex or in the northern part of the island close to our nature reserves
- Coverage of all living costs such as electricity, water, gas, and internet
- Reimbursement of the flight and other transport costs (bus, train, metro, visa) to/from Malta up to a certain limit

- €380 monthly allowance
- Private insurance

Description of duties:

There is the opportunity for the volunteer to gain a wide range of experience and skills across the organisation. Specific duties for this position are as follows:

Bird rescue and care

BirdLife Malta runs a 24/7 voluntary injured bird recovery scheme, answering calls made by the public who encounter shot or injured birds in their property or in the countryside. People may also ring to report a bird crime incident, or seek advice regarding a potential crime taking place.

Accordingly, assistance is required in picking up and ensuring injured birds brought to BirdLife Malta receive urgent veterinary attention, and are rehabilitated with the aim of releasing them back into the wild. Duties will include:

- Answering calls by the public, picking up and ensuring injured birds brought to BirdLife receive urgent veterinary attention and first aid
- Feed and care for injured birds requiring short or long-term rehabilitation through various stages in their recovery so they can be released in to the wild
- Ensure excellent hygiene to minimise health risks to birds and humans
- Provide feedback to people calling BirdLife Malta regarding injured bird cases
- Keep records and case files of all cases of injured birds, reporting to conservation and veterinary team on all cases of wild birds under our care
- Establish and innovate feeding protocols, care and maintenance of injured birds ensuring they can be released at their outmost physical form

Data handling

- Assistance is needed in data management, providing suitable metrics and statistics to assist the department's works. Duties will include the filing and maintenance of photographic and video records, creation and maintenance of databases, productions of maps, graphs and other relevant outputs from bird research and monitoring work.

Content creation

- Work is also needed in bringing rehabilitation stories to the attention of the public through the use of media especially social media. Candidates are expected to document rehabilitation processes so these can be communicated to the wider public through reels and posts on social media to raise awareness on the plight of local and migratory birds on the Maltese Islands.
